AN OLD TIMER GONE.

Donald McLeod one of the most widely known of the old timers of Edmonton, died shortly before six o'clock on Friday evening last. He had been in poor health for some weeks, but was able to be around until a few days ago, when he was compelled to take to bed. A fatal result was not expected until shortly before death. The cause of death is believed to have been an abscess on some part of the intestines, which finally ate into an artery and caused inward bleeding. The deceased was in his 49th year and was born in the village of Shabost, parish of Callway in the island of Lewis, the largest of the Hebrides. He served four years in the naval reserve before leaving Scotland and came to Canada in 1862 in the service of the Hudson's Bay Company. He was stationed at Fort Carlton for the first three years, then at Edmonton for two years, and for two years at Rocky Mountain House. He left the service of the company in 1869, and came to Edmonton in the spring of '70. He began trading on his own account in '71, took up as a claim what is now river lot 14 in the town of Edmonton and in '72 he built one of the first houses in the present town, still standing and occupied by Isaac Cowie. He soon afterwards gave up trading and began freighting on a large scale. During the years from '73 to '83 Mr. McLeod had the largest freighting outfit on the road between Winnipeg and Edmonton. When the railway reached Calgary in 1883 the freighting business began to decline and Mr. McLeod divided his attention amongst other matters. He speculated in real estate and timber limits, established a ranch at the Black Mud crossing of the Calgary trail, which he still owns, took a hand at railway contracting when the C. & E. railway was being built, and in all respects led a most active business life. It must not be forgotten that he was one of the original promoters and owners of the saw and grist mills now owned by Fraser & Co. in Edmonton. In 1880 in conjunction with Messrs John Norris of Edmonton, and Inspector Belcher now of Regina, he built these mills, when Winnipeg was the nearest railway point and when Gladstone, Manitoba, was the limit of the nearest agricultural settlement to the eastward. Mr. McLeod was also the first to commence the shipment of coal from the mines on the White Mud to Calgary, a trade that is increasing very largely. In all respects Mr. McLeod was a most active and enterprising citizen and had a very large share in building up and bringing into prominence Edmonton and the Edmonton district. Although so occupied in business affairs he was sociable, kindhearted and charitable. He was an enthusiastic Scotchman and well versed in the history of his own country, while keeping in wonderfully close touch with the public affairs of the present day. He was unmarried and his nearest relatives in this country are Murdoch McLeod, of Little Mountain, a full cousin, who came from the same village in Scotland, Angus McLeod, manager of the ranch at Black Mud, also a full cousin, and D. McLeod in the employ of Jas. Gibbons, Edmonton. He leaves a large amount of property, including the Columbia hotel, several dwelling houses in town and a large number of town lots, also the ranch at the Black Mud with the stock thereon.
The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon from the residence of the deceased adjoining the Columbia hotel and was one of the largest ever seen in Edmonton. The Old Timers' association and St. Andrew's society mustered in full force, and marched to the Presbyterian church headed by the citizens' band. The sleigh containing the coffin followed, the pall bearers marching on each side and a very long procession of single and double sleighs followed. The pall bearers were John Norris, senior, E. F. Carey, H. S. Young and Jas. Gibbons, from the Old Timers' association, and M. Groat, K. Macdonald, T. Hourston and W. L. Wood, from the St. Andrew's society. All but Messrs Carey and Gibbons had been in the employ of the Hudson's Bay Company. The casket was of rosewood furnished by W. Lockhart, undertaker, and was decorated by floral wreaths, given by friends of the deceased. The funeral sermon was preached by the Rev. D. G. McQueen. On leaving the church the procession was formed again and proceeded to the cemetery where the interment took place, the burial service being read by Rev. Mr. McQueen.

Mr. Gosnell has not yet accepted the collectorship, and may decide to remain in Winnipeg. Mr. Barrett will be inspector of both divisions.

EDMONTON "PAST AND PRESENT."

A PAPER READ BEFORE THE EDMONTON OLD TIMERS' ASSOCIATION AT THEIR FIRST ANNUAL DINNER AT D. ROSS'S HOTEL, 22ND NOVEMBER, 1894, BY HARRISON YOUNG.

Mr. President and members of the Edmonton Old Timers' Association.

In undertaking to write an account of Edmonton past and present to be read to you this evening, I thought I had an easy task, but I found on sitting down to write, that I had a very difficult one. If the time this evening admitted of it, it would have been a simple matter for one having the necessary information, to have written such an account; but to attempt to do the subject any justice in such a short article as this must necessarily be, is impossible. An account of Edmonton in the past would embrace many subjects, such as a description of the old fort and the life we led in it; our amusements &c; buffalo hunting, dog driving, Indians and their customs, the last fight between the Crees and the Black-feet, all these would require an article longer than this is supposed to be, to describe them, and what is true of the past is equally so of the present. To give a history of Edmonton in its transition state, in what we may call the days of the surveyors, to recall the many pleasant hours we passed, in the days when every one knew one another, when no one waited for the ceremony of an introduction, but when we met a stranger, at once asked him his name where he came from, where he was going and what he was going to do after he got there—to give even a faint sketch of those days would require an evening to do it in. I have therefore strung together a few remarks comparing Edmonton in old days and to-day. I have no doubt that in the course of the evening you will hear some of the incidents described and some of the stories related that I regret the time at my disposal this evening prevents me from taking up.

Edmonton as a town or even as a village is a place of very recent date, but as a centre of trade for a district now known under the name of Northern Alberta, it has existed for over a hundred years. I have no references at hand from which to ascertain the exact date on which a post was first established at Edmonton; or whether it was by the Hudson's Bay Company, or their energetic rivals of the Northwest Company, but it is certain that at one time both companies had posts here, and we are also certain that the present Hudson's Bay Company fort occupies the same ground as it did some 70 years ago. That before that the same company had a fort on the grave yard flat. Mr. John Norris tells me that Chas. Bourgard, an old servant of the Hudson's Bay Company who died some years ago, informed him that he remembered the fort on the grave yard flat, and that one spring the water in the river rose to such a height that the boats were floated into the square of the fort, and loaded out of the upper windows of the stores. Fearing a recurrence of such a flood the fort was abandoned and another built on the same site as the present establishment.

The fort as it existed up to 1887 with its bastions and high stockades was a familiar object to all of you. Its appearance then justified the name of fort being applied to it. The post was called Edmonton House by the Hudson's Bay Company, and the fort of the Beaver Hills by the Indians.

The first explorers and traders in this country, whether connected with either the Hudson's Bay Company or the Northwest Company, must have been men of no ordinary discernment and ability, for we find that all the central posts that they established have become towns of importance as the country has settled up, as witness Fort William, Fort Garry, Brandon, Qu'Appelle, Victoria on Vancouver Island, old Fort Vancouver in Oregon, and our own town of Edmonton. The success of these old time adventurers in this matter can be accounted for, if we consider that in selecting a place in which to establish a head post of a new district, they looked not alone to its advantages as a fur trading establishment, but at the advantages it possessed as a base of supplies and as a central point from which the surrounding country might be tapped.
The advantages old Fort Edmonton possessed as a centre of trade, remain-ce with the present town; it is to-day as it was in the old days the point where many trails branch off. It has not perhaps occurred to many of you that Edmonton was once one of the chief stations on the first established and regularly travelled route between the Pacific and Atlantic oceans; but in the days when the Hon. Hudson's Bay Company held sway in what is now the state of Oregon, regularly every spring the chief officer of the western department took boats at Fort Vancouver and travelling up the Columbia reached the boat encampment, there taking horses, he came overland by way of "Tete Jaune Cache" "Jasper House" and "Lac St. Ann's" to Edmonton, there again taking boats he travelled down the Saskatchewan to Lake Winnipeg, across it to Norway House, and down the Nelson River to York Factory, returning by the same route to Vancouver the same season. Regularly every year was this trip made, until Fort Vancouver was evacuated when Oregon was ceded to the United States. What is true as to the establishment of posts by the early traders and explorers, is equally true as regards the routes and trails they established and followed, and I believe the day is not so very far distant when our town will again occupy the position once held by Fort Edmonton as one of the most important points on a route—but this time on that of a railway—connecting the waters of the Pacific with those of Hudson's Bay.

Up to 1873 when the buffalo began to get scarce Edmonton, annually sent out a large quantity of provisions to Norway House and other points where it was distributed to other districts less favorably situated with regard to provisions; in fact the whole inland transport business of the Hudson's Bay Company was carried on by means of the Edmonton district. After the extinction of the buffalo, however, bacon and flour had to be imported into Edmonton to enable even the local transport to be carried on, and to-day we still see large quantities imported both for local use and shipment to the country to the north of us. But I think we also can see the beginning of a return to the old order of things, and that Edmonton instead of importing will soon export, not as formerly pemican, dried meat and tallow, but grain, vegetables, cattle, butter, bacon and cheese.

Large as the quantity of fur shipped down the Saskatchewan in the early days of old Fort Edmonton, there is a larger quantity shipped from here today, as all the fur from the northern districts that formerly passed by another route, now comes to Edmonton.
Edmonton to-day as a market for sale of furs, occupies much the same position as did Fort Garry in the years between 1871 and 1885.

The village of Edmonton may be said to have begun its existence as such when the C. P. R. sent the first survey party to the Edmonton district in 1871. From that date to the present time the place has gone on increasing in population and civilization. At first the progress made was very slow, but it never ceased progressing, never went back. One by one the houses went up, stores were built, settlers kept dropping in, and came to stay. The village grew till it felt able to take on itself the dignity of a town, and the town has grown until it stands as we see it to-day.

To the Old Timers' who came here when Edmonton was but in its infancy, many of you having travelled the 900 and odd miles between here and Winnipeg, either on foot at the tail of a red river cart, or on the back of a thoroughbred cayuse, it must be very gratifying to know that the results arrived at are due to your efforts.

To many of us the sight of the old fort recalls memories of many a pleasant day spent within its hospitable wooden walls, but we would not recall those days if we could, for we feel that though some of the old timers' still remain, the old times have passed away, and like the buffalo, are now only to be sought for and found in the north.

OLD TIMERS' DINNER.

The first annual dinner of the Edmonton Old Timers' association took place on Thursday evening last at the Edmonton hotel, the first house of entertainment between Portage la Prairie and the Rocky Mountains. There was a good attendance. About 60 members of the association, including a number from Fort Saskatchewan and St. Albert, sat down at 6 p. m. to a substantial repast prepared in old time style (improved) and with more than old time abundance. The large billiard and bar room of the hotel was utilized as a dining room and was prettily decorated with evergreens. Three tables were set the full length of the room. The president of the association, James Gibbons, occupied the head of the centre table, D. Ross, vice-president of the association, the head of the right hand, and Mayor McCauley the head of the left hand table; Frank Oliver, M. L. A., Edmonton, occupied the foot of the centre table, D. Maloney, M. L. A., St. Albert, the foot of the right hand and Dr. Wilson, ex-speaker of the Northwest assembly, the foot of the left hand table. The menu cards were striking and original, containing such items as "Leg of Coyote, a la Bretonne," "Raw Turnips," "Hard tack," etc., which items however only appeared on the cards. A letter of regret on account of his inability to attend, from Rev. Father Lacombe, was read by the secretary of the association, A. McNicol. When the substantial meal provided had been satisfactorily disposed of, the president proposed the toast of "The Queen," which was drunk with the usual honors. D. Ross sang an old time song, "Joe Bowers" in excellent old time style, and proposed the health of the governor general. Dr. Wilson responded in a neat and witty speech. The president then called upon H. S. Young to give a short sketch of the history of Edmonton which he had prepared. The paper appears in full in another column. The toast of the "mounted police" was responded to by A. McNicol and ex-inspector T. W. Chalmers. The president sang another old time song "Hard up" and called upon Rev. Dr. Newton for an address.

Canon Newton, who was warmly welcomed, said Mr. President and members of the Old Timers' association. When I observed the notice of this gathering of old timers I resolved if possible to be present; judge then how pleasant it was to receive a communication from your courteous secretary. I thank you for this honor. You who have been at sea know that in the wake of the vessel there is, however rough and stormy the waters, tracts of gleaming light. So in our memory all old times leave behind them bright memories, they have their bright side; even the old red river carts now look picturesque as they wound up the hills, and passed through the valleys, for though they went creaking and groaning along, if they tumbled to pieces shaggy-nappie was always at hand to make things all right, and patient endeavors covered human necessities. However as we willingly tonight forget many untoward circumstances through which we had to struggle, we must not as we look around this festive board forget some old timers' not here, whose presence would have been very welcome; the Hon. Robert Hamilton the chief factor at Fort Edmonton who in '75 helped to make my first winter as pleasant as it could be, a truly honorable gentleman, is not here; nor is kind genial Colonel Stewart our first Indian agent, present at our board; nor Wm. Lennie the blacksmith, as honest and noble a man, one of God's true gentlemen, as we had in our midst; nor Sam Wilkinson, the miner who lost his life in our town while digging a well; and lately we have felt the loss as of a personal friend of the old timer Judge McLeod, whose name will be a bright star in the early history of the Canadian Northwest. Gentlemen we must not forget these and other names not mentioned as we gather to night on this festive occasion. As for our district we are proud of it and we are confident of its future and we think our work in it will stand and justify our hopes and labors; and why should we not receive our reward and any honor connected with the difficulties of opening up new countries. This reminds me of a story told by a Scotchman in the backwoods of Muskoka which has its moral for us: a Scotch couple had cleared the woods and built their shanty, when a bear one day, as if to investigate the changes, quietly walked into the shanty to the surprise of the couple. Sandy rushed up the ladder where he was safe and handing down the broomstick encouraged his better half to attack the bear and kill him, which the lassie bravely did and won the victory; when the hero coming down from his safe position exclaimed "well done Jennie we have killed the bear" and all the neighborhood soon learned how brave they both had been in their great victory. And gentlemen, old timers, now the prospects of our Northwest are bright, especially those of the Edmonton district, let me say with all the emphasis I can command, it is not the new comers but you yourselves who have "killed the bear" and nobody else. To the old timers' belongs the honor and they should have their full share of any reward; for what they have done is the basis of any present or future prosperity. Gentleman, in my study under the trees at the hermitage I sometimes dream dreams of great changes passing over the world. On the north Pacific ocean many events are likely to take place to make future history; when Russia will have her railways near us and European and Eastern statesmen will centre their attention where the east and west mingle the political interests of the whole world, in the lands bordering the North Pacific ocean, Russia, Japan, China, Corea, British Columbia; then our part of the continent will be increasingly one of the world's great highways, justifying the instinct of generations of travellers that the true way to the east is by way of the west; thus commerce will find new routes through our new districts which will open our land to new enterprises and revolutionize our solitudes, turning them into centres of human prosperity of which our Edmonton district and its surroundings cannot fail to take its well deserved share. When those changes come and they seem at hand and our prairies bud and blossom as the rose with innumerable happy homes, when towns and cities will centre commerce, and the arts and sciences will add to human happiness, which poetry and religion will beautify, adorn and consecrate in this country of our adoption; is it not right and becoming that we the old timers should desire in that happy and fortunate future, to keep in memory the work and toil of the old pioneers who have laid the foundations of the civilization whose benefits they will enjoy.

"The Northwest assembly" was responded to by Messrs Oliver and Maloney, M. L. A. A song by A. Coghlan followed. "The legal profession" was responded to by Judge Rouleau. D. Ross gave some reminiscences regarding the first legal proceedings held in the Edmonton district at Fort Saskatchewan before Judge Richardson. The Mayor and Council of Edmonton was responded to by Mayor McCauley and councillors McDougall and Satter. A song by A. McNicol, a speech with several apt and well told comicalities by T. B. Henderson and a song by Judge Rouleau followed. The health of W. Leslie Wood an old resident of Edmonton and now in charge of the H. B. post at Athabasca Landing, who was present, was proposed by the vice-president, and duly honored and acknowledged. Songs by Jas. Lauder, Jr. and D. Ross followed, and a recitation by J. T. Turnbull. Then a song by A. McNicol, healths of Messrs E. Brousseau, of St. Albert, R. Vance, G. P. Sanderson and W. Humberstone proposed by A. D. Osborne and duly responded to. Then the healths of Messrs E. F. Carey, John Norris and Jas. Gibbons proposed by A. McNicol. Recitation by D. Ross. The toast of "The Ladies" was responded to by J. T. Turnbull and A. McNicol. A most sociable and pleasant evening was brought to a close by singing "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the Queen."

FORT SASKATCHEWAN ALBERTA.

The Rev. Mr. D'Easum, of Beaver Lake, held both morning and evening service on Sunday last, and had large congregations, a pleasing part of both services being the music. The choir had very little time to practice but did justice to it. It is hoped that Mr. D'Easum will again favor us ere long.

The genial representative of the Winnipeg Saturday Night, has been here for the past few days, and it is expected that good will result from his visit. Mr. Reid has not been idle, as will be seen when the illustrations and the write up of the town and country appear in the Saturday Night next month. Although but a young journalist, Mr. Reid has all the qualities of a good one, he is persevering, diplomatic, and has splendid descriptive power, which he uses in a concise manner.

Nature came to our relief last Saturday and gave us the annual ice bridge over the Saskatchewan. It is not any too safe for loaded sleighs as yet, as several teamsters have found out by going through the ice. So far nothing serious has happened, but it is necessary for teamsters to be careful, more especially after dark.

The sleighing has improved business this week and given the streets a stirring aspect. Nov. 22nd, 1894.

The Winnipeg Commercial opposes the scheme of a fast Atlantic steamship service on the grounds that the cost is excessive.

The Toronto Week has passed into the hands of a new company and is much improved typographically and editorially.

The Winnipeg Commercial quotes Ashcroft potatoes, in Vancouver at $23 per ton or about 7½¢ per bushel. Fraser River potatoes, are only worth $14 a ton or 41¢ a bushel.

Lord and Lady Aberdeen were royally received at Donald B. C. on Nov. 16th.

Winnipeg Commercial: Merrick, Anderson & Co., Winnipeg, burned out on Friday morning, have opened a temporary office in the Grain Exchange building. In addition to their stock of tar paper, which was saved from the fire, they have a large stock of goods in their warehouse on the railway track, including bags, stoves, furnaces, sheet metal, etc., so that they will be able to supply the trade with many lines, notwithstanding the destruction of their Princess street warehouse. They expect to have a full stock again within ten days. They are fitting up offices in their track warehouse for temporary quarters.

ELECTION PROTEST.

On Thursday a formal demand for a recount of the votes cast in several polling divisions of St. Albert electoral district was made upon Judge Rouleau, by J. B. Langlais of St. Albert, accompanied by the necessary deposit of $50. The polling places the votes of which will be counted by the judge are No. 2, Morinville, No. 4, Glengarry, No. 5, Poplar lake, No. 6, Sturgeon river and No. 8, Lake St. Ann. The demand is made on behalf of Mr. Prince. Under the election ordinance a demand for a recount may be, and in this case it is practically, an election protest. Section 78 of the ordinance provides that "If the judge in making a recount of the votes cast in any polling division finds a difference between the number of ballots counted and the number of votes cast, or that one or more ballots have been defaced or improperly stamped or initialed or that one or more of the ballots counted have been cast by a person who had not the right to vote according to the provisions of this ordinance as decided by the court of revision or appeals therefrom, or from the records contained in the poll book of the polling division or in the record book of the returning officer in respect of such polling division and such evidence as may be received by him under oath that the conduct of the poll was not in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance and was such as to prevent a full and fair vote of the voters of the polling division, he may refuse to include the votes cast at the polling place of that polling division in his final statement and may declare the poll held in such polling division to be invalid." If the judge declares any certain poll invalid another vote shall be taken of the electors of that polling division. The costs of the recount beyond the sum of $50 deposited by the person demanding the recount is chargeable to the general expenses of the election.

GENERAL NEWS.

W. F. Orr the present mayor of Calgary in response to a requisition, offers himself as a candidate for re-election.

The veterinary inspector declares that out of 100 dairies examined in the vicinity of Winnipeg only five were in good condition.

Mediation between China and Japan is considered hopeless, as the latter is said to demand the surrender of the Chinese fleet, an indemnity of $125,000,000, and other incidents, rather than submit China will take her chances fighting it out.

The election held in London, Ont., on Nov. 20th to elect a member for the local house to fill the vacancy caused by elevation of the late member and leader of the opposition, resulted in a victory for Hobbs, the liberal candidate, by a majority of 800 over Mayor Emery.

Ex-Ald. E. A. MacDonald is suing the Toronto World for $20,000 damages for alleged libel in connection with attacks on the promoter of the Georgian Bay aqueduct scheme. The aqueduct company is also suing the World for the same amount for alleged libelous statement about the company.

The World, Conservative, this morning says the Empire's stockholders are willing to assign their stock to a syndicate if the latter will run the paper, without consideration for what they have paid in. It also adds that the efforts to amalgamate the Mail and the Empire has been a disaster of $20,000 to the stockholders, and that the Dominion government has repudiated it as the government's organ, and says its existence is not necessary to the existence of the government.

The Calgary Tribune of Nov. 21st contains the following notice: Today, Mr. Braden, the founder, as well as the editor and proprietor of the Tribune since its inception in 1885 to the present, severs his connection with the paper, over which he has no control. But although Mr. Braden's connection with the Tribune is a thing of the past he by no means bids farewell to his customers and friends in Calgary and Alberta and hopes in the course of a few days to be able again to ask the patronage of his old allies who have seen the ups and downs that have taken place in Alberta during the last few years. In the meantime all accounts due to the Tribune up to this date are payable to T. B. Braden, who is alone qualified to give a valid receipt therefor.

The post office department has issued the following notice: "It is represented to the department that letters addressed to England, France and other countries the rate of postage to which is 5 cents per half ounce, are often posted short paid, and therefore it is necessary to tax them with double the efficient postage owing to the fact that the senders have forgotten that to these destinations they should pay by the half-ounce and not by the ounce. The only countries outside of Canada to which the unit of weight is one ounce, are the United States and Newfoundland. In case of registered letters it is specially important that no mistake should be made in the prepayment, as unless they are fully prepaid they cannot be forwarded. Notwithstanding the regulation which prohibits the attaching of anything to a post card, the post office department will not in future object to the placing on the face of a post card of an address tag such as is used in newspaper offices. After the 1st of January the rate on parcels between Canada and Japan will be reduced to 20 cents per pound.
